Council Asks Complete Review of Meat Distribution by Ottawa

New Tax Exemptions

Maiden Speech of City M.P.

Calls for Higher Pensions

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL

OTTAWA, Sept. 14.—(CP)—Requests ranging from the abolition of income tax on all income of $5,000 a year and down to the establishment of a bill of rights for the minorities in Canada were heard yesterday in the Commons as the Throne Speech debate continued.

P. M. Ashby (S-Edmonton East), who turned farmer on his return from the First Great War, made his maiden speech and said his constituents wanted increased old age pensions and a reduction in the taxes on consumer goods.

The request for a minority bill of rights came from another new member, Alistair Stewart (CCP-Winnipeg North), who said there was need for such a bill because of racial discriminations in Canada.

OTHER SUGGESTIONS
A variety of other suggestions were heard from the opposition among whom were J. M. MacDonald (PC-Muskoka-Ontario), Max-Continued on Page 3, Col. 1

Air Force Man Says Murdered Wife Unfaithful

WINNIPEG, Sept. 14.—(CP)—A former Jap. verdict returned last night after an inquest into the death of Mrs. Ellen May Macdonald, who was shot dead yesterday night at her home in suburban Weston from injuries received when she was shot by her husband, Capt. Fred Macdonald, 37, an RCAF service policeman, home on leave from Alaska, who was charged with murder in police court Monday.

In a statement, police said he made shortly after midnight Sunday he admitted killing his attractive 30-year-old wife, who had just arrived home on leave to discuss divorcement, as she came down another air force bus, Sgt. James D. Manby.

WANTED VOICES

As the inquest by Sergeant of Detective J. Reeves, the statement said:
"About two weeks ago a letter came, in which she said she didn't want me any more. . . she said she had cheated on me and she loved somebody else. . . If you continue on Page 4, Col. 4

Farmer Is Killed

By Rifle Bullet

Swier Boven, 38-year-old Collinson farmer and father of four small children, was accidentally killed by a rifle bullet at his home in the Alhambra district shortly after 10 p.m. Thursday, according to RCMP.

Police said the rifle, a .303 caliber, was fired from the house of Boven's brother-in-law, 40-year-old Andrew Wood. The youth had visited the Boven home on the evening, and was about to leave on horseback when he started to hand him his rifle.

The weapon apparently slipped from Boven's grasp as he stepped onto the ground and the rifle discharged, firing a bullet through the farmer's mouth. It emerged through the top of his head, killing him instantly.

RCMP said no inquest would be held.

Camrose District Butchers to Strike

If Ration Remains

Edmonton, Sept. 14.—Swelling the mounting tide of protest against meat rationing, Camrose butchers and butchers from towns and villages in the district, are holding a meeting held here Thursday night to go on strike on Sept. 24 unless the rationing is lifted.

Retail meat merchants from a radius of 40 miles around the town of Camrose, Alberta, are expected to meet and appoint C. G. Brinkson as president of the newly formed Camrose District Butchers' Union.

Canada Will Revert To Standard Time

OTTAWA, Sept. 14.—(BUP)—Paul Martin, secretary of state, told Parliament today that the government will revert from daylight saving to standard time at 2 a.m. Sunday, Sept. 30.

MacArthur Promises Nippon To Pay Full Price of Defeat

From CP, AP and British U.P. Dispatches GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, TOKYO, Sept. 14.—Closing down Japan's last propaganda outlet, the official Domei news agency, and answering critics of a "soft peace" with the announcement that he had no intention of applying surrender terms to Japan in "kid-gloved fashion," General MacArthur today tightened up Allied control on Japan. He said the Japanese government now was "completely controlled" by occupation forces, and pledged the "prompt, complete and entire fulfillment of the terms of surrender."

Three more Japanese suicides were reported. Gen. Yuchi Yoshimoto, former commander of the northern Japan district, committed harakiri this morning by slashing his abdomen with a sword and firing a bullet into his head.

Last night, Lt. Gen. Chikahiko Kusunoki, military attaché in Japan's Pearl Harbor cabinet and No. 11 on the list of Japanese war criminals, committed harakiri at his home in Tokyo.

U.S. Civil Air Attache Lauds North Country

Canada's great Northland is in need of two things if it is to make the contribution it can make to the nation—more defense and development of the many fine resources of the region, said Stevens Roper, civil air attaché at the United States Embassy in Ottawa, stated here Friday.

Mr. Roper has just returned from an extended aerial tour of the northwest, having flown from Vancouver to Whitehorse and down the coast, visiting St. John's, Newfoundland, and back to Vancouver.

His recent trip is part of a fact-finding tour of the Northwest Territories, and he will be visiting the Yukon and the Klondike.

AMONG DUTIES
His duties as attaché for the United States include overseeing the development of all matters concerning civil aviation development, and jointly affect the United States and Canada.

"We feel that civilian aviation is going to become of prime importance in the future," he said.

Seek Extension Shipment Order

A two-week extension of the federal regulation prohibiting shipment of meat and butter after Sept. 15 has been urged by Hon. D. A. Macdonald, minister of agriculture, in a telegram to federal authorities.

Reason for the seeking extension of the embargo is that the farmers have not advanced sufficiently in their efforts to know their full production for the coming year.

The telegram was dispatched following a meeting of the minister and Mr. Macdonald, representative here for the Canada Meat Producers' Association, who is to make a second appeal for extension will be sent to Mr. A. Macdonald, minister of trade and commerce.

The Dominion government had issued the order following strong representations from farmers and government agricultural officials.

"To say yes," he said, "I think the vast majority of our countrymen would be in favor of it." He said that he was anxious to see the order extended, but that he feared for his life if he did so under this regime.

History Repeats
History repeats itself. Fifty years ago today Edmonton was a small town of 100 people. Read about it in Looking Backward on THE BULLETIN's editorial page today.

Next Wednesday
Canada's meat rationing is expected to be lifted from behind the counters of innumerable butcher shops across the country yesterday to the floor of the House of Commons where Finance Minister Lloyd announced that officials of the Prices and Consumer Control Board with Dominion retail merchants to discuss rationing with them.

This was a partial victory for the meat keepers, as it was a defeat for the rationing. The government did not intend to lift the rationing, but it was a partial victory for the meat keepers, as it was a defeat for the rationing. Red Deer MP To Ask Probe Govt. Disposal Of War Assets

By CHESTER BROWN
Edmonton North-West House
OTTAWA, Sept. 14.—Investigation into disposal of surplus war assets will be demanded in a few days in the House of Commons by F. D. Shaw (S-Red Deer) who will ask a Royal Commission to be appointed to undertake this work.

Mr. Shaw and a member of the Alberta legislature, Mr. J. H. McLeod, have investigated the destruction of rail and road equipment at RCAF Technical School at Penhold, Alberta, and believe that the government is being misled by a royal commission.

Large quantities of valuable equipment, including aircraft, were being destroyed in a wholesale manner, a story which Mr. Shaw said he and Mr. McLeod had investigated with a royal commission.

For Beautification Only

There is a report current throughout the city that an effort will be made to establish new industrial sites along Ed-monton's river area.

If such an effort is being made and it is about to be made, the forces in this city which stand for a progressive and beautiful Edmonton are about to be put to a severe test and will oppose it tooth and nail.

In the first place, the river area and the river flats, except in point of low property values, are about as good as dead ground for the establishment of industries. These areas have little or no railway trackage.
They are too poor to be made into a foundation for industry.

To permit the industrialization of the river area would be to create an ugly smokestack park in the heart of the city.
The greater city. These low lying sites would simply distribute dirt and ashes throughout the entire community.

Moreover, the river area is Edmonton's finest asset from the standpoint of beautification. The river and its surroundings are the one thing of natural beauty possessed by the community.

If that area is suitably developed and terraced and parked, Edmonton can become one of the most beautiful cities in North America. If it is jammed with factories and smoke and railway trackage, the beauty will be lost forever.

It is never to be more than just another prairie town.

What Time?

The war ended and the summer winds, the compulsory "daylight saving" could not be cancelled. It will then be time for people in any community to set their clocks back an hour and sleep later in the morning, or continue as in the war years and set up winter time before day breaks, as they please. That was the order of the times in pre-war days, and while there was some controversy, the arrangement worked with general satisfaction. Else it would not have continued over many years.

This matter of clock adjustment is of more than common interest to Edmonton people because of the time zone. The community boundary of a time zone. We "take time" from a meridian passing close to Broadway, Saskatchewan, and when it is six o'clock summer time, it is only about twenty minutes after five here.
Under "daylight saving" we are thus about an hour and forty minutes ahead of the sun. That makes quite an appreciable difference on a frosty winter morning.

The Crops

It has not been a "bumper crop" summer in Canada. The "bumper" has been set in perspective by the grain production estimates of the Bureau of Statistics. The probable wheat yield for all Canada is given as 1,000,000 bushels, a drop of 114 million from the figures for last year. The three prairie provinces are credited with 897 million of the national total. Coarse grain shows a much less impressive shrinkage, in the west and throughout the Dominion.

A curious fact about the while dry weather cut down yields on the prairies, excessive rainfall produced a little result in the eastern provinces. The average acre crop of wheat has been set at 12.2 bushels, the lowest since the war began.

These figures of course are only informed guesses, for there has been no officially collected reports, and in past years the advance statements of the Bureau have not been very far from the truth. That the final returns will go much beyond the predicted totals is not likely, and they may fall short.

The slump in feed grains does not indicate any expansion of the livestock herd as being probable in the immediate future. The annual yield of corn, a recent official statement that the long-standing surplus of this cereal may vanish by the end of the coming season.

Canada could have made good use of record-breaking grain crops this season, for the world is facing a winter food shortage more serious than this generation has ever known. But there is plenty of cause for thankfulness on our own behalf and for the sake of humanity, that the yields are as good as they are. Australia has been hard-hit by drought, and a really scant crop in Canada would have been in the nature of a calamity to people in Europe as well as to people in Canada.

The Men Behind Him

When he lost himself Ex-Premier Tojo at last did something which the world could appreciate. It could even be said that he hadn't bungled the job. However, those medicine doctors seemed in pulling him back so he can be placed on trial, it may be possible that some useful information can be extracted from him as to the working of Japanese intrigue in high places and dark corners of the world.
The reason for their anxiety to prolong an existence which Tojo no longer finds attractive and which humanity is quite willing that he should terminate.

But the military leaders that he made of over-rating Tojo's place and importance in the Japanese scheme of things. There is no danger that General MacArthur will fall into that error and neither should the reading public. Tojo was only a cog in the machine, willing as he was to take the responsibility for the war. It is disclosed that he was advised to commit suicide. The idea perhaps was that if he made himself a scapegoat, the world would look no farther for parties on whom to place blame; and his backers and sponsors could go plotting for the future.

The Jap militaristic faction is older than Tojo, and broader than the roll of the Black Dragon society. It ranks with the hereditary military aristocracy of Prussia as a nebulous but very real body, always preaching aggression, using whatever politician time and circumstance offered as a figurehead. Tojo's opposite number was Hitler. Each of them was the instrument of an organization he neither created nor joined, and which he was willing to liquidate him when he had served its purpose.

Tojo rates as Jap war criminal No. 1, and rightly so. But behind him the long aristocracy of cut-throats which must be destroyed root and branch.

The parliament of Chile ratified the United Nations Charter, with only one contrary vote. Chile lies alongside Argentina, which the official Moscovite news describes as "a haven of refuge for Nazi war criminals." Perhaps that helped to bring the Chilean legislators into almost complete unanimity.

John Collins, a St. Boniface teacher, fell from his saddle while riding his horse and was killed. He was 65 years of age and is still alive, in the hospital at that place with a broken neck. He was a member of the prospect of complete recovery.

Two valuable saddle horses, belonging to the British forces, were killed in a crash landing. The horses were from Vancouver to Okanagan. Steam pipes were installed in the car to keep the horses warm.

The appointment of Lord Wellesley as commander-in-chief of British forces in the Mediterranean is being warmly approved in the old lands and throughout the Empire.
British troops left last week for Lorraine, and to examine that part of the country as a site for the colony the Salvation Army proposes to bring out 100,000 men.

Tram Library Ready to Start On Operations

Edmonton's street car library is to commence operations again and will be in the West End district Sept. 18, North Edmonton Sept. 19 and at Center Sept. 21. One of the library's previous calls, the Highlands district, had to be taken off the list since the car lines have been removed. The car is open from 3:00 p.m. until 9:00 p.m.

The idea of a mobile library was conceived by Hugh Gourlay, city librarian. Original plans were to use a bus. It was impossible, however, to acquire a bus at the time, so an old-fashioned street car which had been seen service for 32 years, was procured by the library officials.

CAR OVERHAULED
The old Number 14, the chosen car, was then given a complete over-haul, redecorated and had book shelves installed. It is also equipped with electric heating facilities and has a total of 40 lights.

The front vestibule of the car is little reserved for the motorist while the rear vestibule is used for the "charging car" office. Children's books are arranged on one side of the car and adults' on the other. The car was inspected by about 1,000 people when put on exhibition after its completion in October, 1941. Since then it has appeared in newspapers and short colored features which have been shown around the world. Letters have been received offering congratulations from far off places.

Salute to the car and its operator. The car is now in the West End district, North Edmonton, and at Center Sept. 21.

COMMITTS HARA-KIRI.—Gen. Horehika Anami, Japanese war minister, committed hara-kiri following the surrender of Japan to the Allied powers.

such as India, Australia, and Egypt. The Palestine Post in Jerusalem had an article on the traveling library which is an example of how widely known this venture has become. Newspapers and magazines all over the world have published articles and pictures showing the value of such a service to a city.

LARGE BOOK STOCK
With a stock of more than 4,000 books, it now does a circulation that compares favorably with that of a full-fledged library branch. An average of about 1,000 books are loaned out in the course of a month. In addition to serving as a traveling branch of the public library, through its regular visits to the various communities, it is assisting in developing a community spirit, officials point out.

Lack of Space New Problem For Schools

Edmonton's lack of housing accommodation for residents and prospective residents has developed into a new phase in spreading to the city's schools. The overcrowding of schools has reached such proportions that in speaking of the situation at Victoria High school, R. S. Sheppard, superintendent of schools, referred to it as "alarming".

Urgency of the situation was such that parents, teachers and officials have revised the demand for a new large composite school, several times proposed in the past. Location of the new school would be in the vicinity of the Victoria school where overcrowding is at its worst.

BOUNDARIES CHANGED
Efforts by authorities to relieve the congestion has resulted in several school boundary changes which at present affect Victoria, Westgate and Gairdner schools.

Displacement caused by the changes is working some slight hardship on the pupils in the shifts from one school to another, it was said. More boundary changes were probable, it was added, together with the possible dropping of dramatic classes and the reorganizing of assembly halls into auxiliary classrooms.

Regular classroom schedules have been suspended until Monday, after which time it was hoped a temporarily satisfactory solution could be found.
